

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides a method for acylating one or more amino groups of a peptide where the acylation reaction is to be performed in an aqueous mixture containing less 5 than 10 %w/w aprotic polar solvent.